Course Approval Form

The Japanese Language Education Division of the Language Education Center (LEC) offers the "University-wide Japanese Language Program" for international students and other students at Nagoya University. The program aims to develop the Japanese language skills necessary for daily life and research activities at the university.

In addition to international students, researchers, faculty, and staff are eligible to enroll, provided they have obtained permission from the host faculty member (for researchers), department head (for faculty), or supervisor (for staff).

If you agree to take the course, please complete the following items after confirming that the applicant can continue participating in the class.
